

present

by Archibald MacLeish, directed by Candace Upton

Performances: April 23, 24, 30, May 1, 7, 8

Archibald MacLeish's Pulitzer-Prize-winning modern adaptation of the Book of Job grapples with the ancient question of suffering, struggling—as MacLeish himself did—to make “injustice, justice, and God good.” With elegant verse and a modern cast of characters, the play-within-a-play makes the millenia-old tale seem to be ripped from today's headlines: wrenching, accessible, and personal.

NOTE: This show contains inferred violence and talk of death and may not be suitable for all pre-teens.

---

Reservations: 610-363-7075

Adults: $15.00; Students 18 and under and Adults over 60: $12.00

For more information, visit www.barleysheaf.org.